VOLUME XXIX.—NO. 3.

HIBERNIANS

Urged by National Chaplain to Unite in Stamping Out Socialism.

Twelve Hundred Delegates Legislating For Ancient Order in Chicago.

Committees Studying the Best Form of National Insurance For Members.

SHOWING OF LADIES AUXILIARY

A decided stand by the Ancient Order of Hibernians toward the downing of Socialism in the United States and the furtherance of the study of Gaelic by Irish-Americans were features of the annual convention of the A. O. H., which opened Tuesday in Chicago. A strong sermon denouncing Socialism by Bishop John F. Carroll, of Helena, Mont., marked the first exercises of the convention, a solemn Pontifical high mass at the Holy Name Cathedral, at which Archbishop Quigley officiated, assisted by the Very Rev. M. J. Fitzsimmons, the Rev. D. J. Dunne, the Rev. W. J. McNamee and the Rev. M. O'Sullivan. The delegates, 1,200 in number, attended in a body.

Bishop Carroll, the National Chaplain, in his sermon urged the Irish in America to stand with the Catholic church in its fight against Socialism. "Socialism is the greatest danger confronting this country," said the Bishop. "Every Irish soul should burn with indignation at the propositions that this doctrine sets forth for acceptance. Socialism would deprive him of everything that any real Irishman holds dear and would bring him back to conditions that existed in Ireland a century ago. In the name of religion, for the sake of your homes and for this grand and glorious country, which we love as we do our lives, I ask you to combat the evils of Socialism, which would finally wreck the country."

He also praised the A. O. H. for voting $25,000 to the Catholic Church Extension Society. Immediately after the services the delegates were shown in automobile to the Robert Emmett Hall, James J. Regan, of St. Paul, National President of the organization, opened the convention shortly after noon. Committees were appointed and the Executive Committee held a short session at the Hotel La Salle later. In the evening the Chicago divisions gave a ball to the delegates and their wives at the Robert Emmett Hall, when more than 2,500 attended.

The convention has filled Chicago with some of the nation's prettiest women. The women are members of the Woman's Auxiliary of the Irish-American organization and are meeting in the Hotel La Salle. After the convention was called to order Wednesday the report of the Credential Committee was read and the delegates, numbering more than 1,000, were seated. Committees were then to be formed.

"If you want to help Ireland, patronize Irish industries, but don't get the idea that the old country is seeking charity," was the keynote of an address delivered by Father M. O'Flanagan, of Ireland.

The Committee on Constitutional Amendment will be one of the most important bodies at this convention. It has the task of recommending the best form of national insurance benefit. Some of the State divisions of the body already have insurance. The insurance schemes of the organization in Illinois, Michigan, Massachusetts and Minnesota will be given thorough consideration.

The ability of women to successfully conduct an organization and to legislate for themselves was held to be incontrovertible by Miss Anna C. Malia, of Scranton, Pa., who spoke before the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in the Hotel La Salle. Miss Malia has been President of the Ladies' Auxiliary since it was started. "From a membership of 30,000 when the auxiliary started our membership today is at least 63,000, or more than double what it had attained during the eleven years prior to our procuring our own legislation," said Miss Malia. "I trust that for all time any doubts entertained by those who were pessimistic as to the ability of the ladies to legislate for themselves will now be laid to rest."

John W. Rainey, assistant to the Probate Judge, and Democratic candidate for Clerk of the Circuit Court, acted as toastmaster at the banquet at the Auditorium Thursday night.

The real work of the convention began with the reports of the committees on Thursday, a full account of which will appear in next week's issue.

USEFUL LIFE ENDED.

A useful and well spent life was brought to a close Wednesday morning when God called James B. McCollum to his eternal reward. The deceased had always been interested in the growth of this city, and was highly esteemed in its business and social circles. Born in Ireland eighty-five years ago, he came to this country when a young man. Coming to Louisville he engaged in the brick manufacturing business, from which he retired some years ago on account of his age. James McCollum was a faithful Catholic and in years gone by was a moving spirit in a number of societies. He is survived by eight sons, James, John, William, Samuel, Sol, Thomas, Robert and Louis McCollum, and two daughters, Mrs. Mollie Parsons and Mrs. Edward Brady. His funeral was held yesterday morning from St. Mary Magdalen church, Father Gauspohl officiating at the mass, and in his sermon he paid a deserved tribute to the exemplary life led by the deceased.

HANDSOME

Will Be the Float of the Columbia Athletic Club.

A happy feeling prevailed Tuesday night at the meeting of the Columbia Athletic Club, largely due to the splendid attendance, the victory of the American athletes at Stockholm, and the progress now being made with the handsome float for the Catholic Federation parade. President Ben Beckmann was in the chair and the Board of Directors submitted a very gratifying report. William Dennes exhibited the design for the float and the plan outlined for the Columbia Athletic Club, which promises a surprise. The Secretary's report showed that interest in the club was increasing and that the building fund was sufficient to meet payments when due. Several interesting talks were made, during which attention was called to the improvements made in the house and the comforts installed for the members. Messrs. Will Larkin, Peter Koch and William Meehan were appointed members of a committee to confer with Col. Joseph McGinn and Harry Veeneman as to the programme for the reception to be tendered the Supreme officers of the Catholic Knights of America during the Federation convention next month. Upon motion it was decided to give another meeting before cold weather for the members and their families, the committee that arranged the last one being reappointed. Will Holley, W. T. Meehan and the editor of the Kentucky Irish American, which also contained the severe editorial criticism of the Louisville Herald of the whole Guardian of Liberty movement, and especially the action of the two Federal officials. Following is the statement mailed to Mr. Cooney by the Washington authorities:

Mr. Edward J. Cooney, President Catholic Press Association, Providence, R. I.—Sir: With reference to your letter of the tenth in regard to the report that the Postmaster and the Assistant Postmaster at Louisville, Ky., had participated in the formation of a branch of the Guardians of Liberty, you are informed that the matter has been taken up with the officials in question. The Postmaster reports that the meeting which he attended was presided over by one of the foremost citizens, that he arrived late at the hall, which was crowded, and that he was invited to a seat on the platform, that he did not participate in the formation of a branch, in order to be sole participant. In the room to sit and listen to what was said. He states that he has never at any time been a member of the A. P. A. organization and that he has never been a member of the Guardians of Liberty. The Assistant Postmaster reports that he did attend a meeting held under the auspices of the Guardians of Liberty, at which Gen. Nelson A. Miles spoke, that he did not at that time participate in the organization of a branch of the order and that it is his information that no organization was effected at that meeting.

Postmaster Woods neglects to state in his statement that the foremost citizen (Andrew Cowan) repudiated the A. P. A. movement in the daily press two days after, and that the other prominent citizens, ex-Mayor Charles P. Weaver and ex-Chief Filmore Tyson, stated to the Kentucky Irish American that they were inveigled there under false pretenses and had no sympathy for the Guardian of Liberty movement. Neither Woods or Morey, the servants of the public, which includes Catholic citizens, ever offered any explanation of their presence or why so many of the employees under them were present on that occasion, neither did they explain that admission was by card only and why so many at the fair, which is one of the best in Kentucky.

Frankfort Council will also entertain the people of Frankfort some Sunday in the near future with a boat ride up the historic Kentucky river, going as far as High Bridge. This will be a really pleasant day for those fortunate enough to be the guests of the Knights.

Knights throughout Kentucky will be gratified to learn that Louis Schriff, the genial Frankfort Secretary, who has been quite sick, is much improved. His host of friends hope to see him completely recovered when he returns from a two weeks' stay at the springs.

TRINITY COUNCIL.

Membership Committee Provides a Delightful Musicale.

A delightful and appreciated event of the week occurred Tuesday evening, when the Membership Committee entertained Trinity Council, Y. M. C. and its friends and prospective candidates with a musical given at the club house and participated in by some of the best vocal and instrumental talent in the city. The programme was arranged by Phil W. Hager, and every number proved highly pleasing to the large audience. Trinity proposes to make these affairs frequent among its social doings in order to keep up the already enthusiastic interest. The council has already determined to give another opera, and when the cooler weather arrives active work of preparation will begin.

INJURIES NOT SERIOUS.

Sunday afternoon Ferdinand Quill, messenger boy for the Western Union, was hit by a street car at Eighteenth and Jefferson, receiving painful cuts and bruises. The boy was removed to Dr. Borgman's office, where his injuries were dressed, when he was conveyed to the home of his mother, Mrs. Mary Quill, 2017 Griffith avenue. This is the third accident in this family within a year, the other two proving fatal. Dan Quill, the father, was killed in a runaway accident, and a brother was drowned when his boat overturned in the canal about a month ago.

Excuses of Woods and Morey Filed With Post Office Department.

DAVID B. G. ROSE TURNS HOUND

Following the complaint lodged by E. J. Cooney, of Providence, R. I., the President of the Catholic Press Association, to the Post Office Department at Washington, against Postmaster Robert E. Woods, of Louisville, and his assistant, John G. Morey, for participating and taking a prominent part in the Guardians of Liberty meeting here recently, the weak and feeble apologies of these two contained in the report of C. P. Grandfield, First Assistant Postmaster General, are interesting. Mr. Cooney's attention had been called to the matter by the publication in the Kentucky Irish American, which also contained the severe editorial criticism of the Louisville Herald of the whole Guardian of Liberty movement, and especially the action of the two Federal officials. Following is the statement mailed to Mr. Cooney by the Washington authorities:

PLAN BIG MEET.

Preparations are under way for a monster meeting in Ulmer Park on Sunday, August 16, of the Irish Nationalists of Brooklyn, and other American friends of home rule for Ireland. The occasion will be the greeting to William H. K. Redmond, Irish member of Parliament, and one other, possibly Joseph Devlin, M. P., who are coming to this country for the regular biennial Irish convention to be held in Philadelphia in September. The United Irish League, the A. O. H. and the Gaelic societies are working together to make the reception to the Irish delegates from Parliament the biggest thing in the history of big meetings in Brooklyn.

POSTPONED

Catholic Knights Celebration Will Take Place July 29.

Owing to the downpour of rain last Monday night, the date for the annual celebration of the Catholic Knights of America at Fontaine Ferry Park was changed to Monday, July 29. Manager Bilger and Chairman Oscar Maier will then present all the features previously arranged for and will add a number of entirely new attractions. The postponement will give the Catholic Knights of the Falls Cities opportunity to arouse a greater interest for this occasion, when it is hoped to record the season's biggest crowd at Fontaine Ferry Park. The tickets and coupons that have been issued will be good for the 29th.

BRITISHERS

Humiliated by the Wretched Show of Their Athletes.

The wretched showing made by British athletes in the Olympian games has caused intense bitter and humiliation in England. At the beginning the British correspondents at Stockholm sought to explain away the defects of their men by insinuating in some cases, or openly charging in others, unfairness against the judges and sharp practice against their conquerors.

It is a bitter confession that Great Britain, the original source of modern athletics, should have to humbly sit at the feet of Jim Sullivan and Mike Murphy and begin to learn the rudiments of training, but it represents in summary form the conclusion reached by W. Beach Thomas, ex-President of the Oxford University Athletic Club, in a two-column special article to the Daily Mail, written after his visit to Stockholm.

The pride of every Englishman, he says, is daily galled in that great concourse of nations at the St. Louis games, by what he sees and will be prompted to do, and will be greatly humiliated by what the priest sacrificed. Second, to feed upon certain parts of the Victim. They therefore joined with the priest in his act, but did not join with him in any public prayer said relating to that act. It consequently matters not what the language be which the priest may use at the altar; what the people join in is the great act of worship, not any form of prayer.

The non-Catholic persisted in his inquiries, and asked why Latin should be the tongue actually used. He was told that in prayer the words and feeling or sentiment are all; but in sacrifice the thing done counts for most, the words said being of secondary importance. The sacrifice must be the same for all; the prayer may be different for each according to his disposition. Catholics are not poor in prayers in the English tongue, a fact that is shown by another fact, namely, that all the good parts of the Protestant communion book are bodily taken from the Catholic sacrifice does not change, it is the same day by day, and only the gospel of the day varies. The same unchanging sacrifice is the cause and guide of the intensity of Catholic devotion, and the liberty given the Catholic to pray during the sacrifice as he wishes, makes the same worship ever new.

Since the universality of the church is one of her characteristics, it is only fitting that the devotions rendered in the course of the act of sacrifice should be universal and given everywhere in one and the same tongue. So men gathered as on the day of Pentecost from all nations under heaven in one monastery, or in one church, can not only be present at the same sacrifice because it is an act in which they all join, but can join in the same psalms and the same prayers in the very same tongue to which they were used each in his own land. Clearly this is good for both layman and priest. The priest who is ordered away to China at a moment's notice can say his mass just as quietly when he arrives there. It would puzzle a non-Catholic clergyman, however, to read his prayers in any other but his native tongue. To this the non-Catholic assented.

There is a greater reason, however, as Father Bampfield insisted: Christianity, he told the non-Catholic, is no longer Christianity if it be changed. Christianity added to, or Christianity taken from, is not the Christianity of Christ. The care of the truth is the great and the first duty of the Society of Christ—the Catholic church. It follows then that the fixed, if dead, language suits best the purpose of the church; the meaning of each word is established and can not be altered. What Cicero meant when first he spoke the words in the Senate at Rome, what St. Jerome and St. Augustine meant—that same is meant today, and will be meant when the world ends. What an English-speaking Catholic means by the Latin word, that the Frenchman means, and also the Italian, the Austrian, the Hindoo and Jap who are acquainted with Latin. All who know living languages are aware how the meanings of words vary in different ages. In Chaucer, for example, it is very hard to follow the language without notes, and the French of Rabelais is very far from the French of Chateaubriand. By the use of Latin, a fixed and settled language, the doctrine of the church is ennobled in one unchanging tongue—as unchangeable as the doctrine. Hence, no wrong idea can be brought by the growth of the language into the first Christianity taught; and in this we have another reason why Latin is best. Latin was the language of Europe, and because Europe has spread itself, by its peoples, throughout the world, Latin is the best of the world-wide tongues that have died.

Unchanging Sacrifice Is Cause and Guide of Catholic Devotion.

THE CHRISTIANITY OF CHRIST

Nothing puzzles some non-Catholics so much, in reference to matters Catholic, as the fact that our church services should be rendered by far the greater part in Latin. Father George Bampfield, of the Oratory, deals with the matter in one of the Catholic Truth publications, and tells of his argument with an amiable, if heavy-headed, non-Catholic on this particular subject. The Protestant complained that the choir sang in Latin, the priest sang in Latin and "speak low, as if he did not want anyone to hear him" when he prayed. Father Bampfield had a hard task to point out, that despite the Latin, the less educated of the Catholic congregations understood the mass far better than the Protestants understood their English prayers. The non-Catholic admitted willingly that the Catholic church seemed to welcome and attract the poor.

In the first place, Father Bampfield said, there was no use in the mass being recited or sung in English; and in the second place, there was much use in it being sung in Latin. In celebrating the mass, the priest is not only praying, he is doing a work which is greater than prayer, and the people join him in the work he is doing. The one great act the priest performs is a sacrifice, as ordained by God; for nowhere is it read that he ordered the people to use personally any particular form of prayers; each man said his own according to his heart, his grief, his joy or his relief.

THE RED MENACE.

Replies to Tom Watson and others, C. A. Windle, non-Catholic and editor of Brann's Iconoclast, thus disposes of the slanderous charge that the Catholic church is the greatest menace to American liberty and institutions.

Rev. Tedd Walker, of Aurora, Mo., edits a dirty little rag which he calls The Menace. The brat was sired by Tom Watson and damned by Dame Bigotry. The sheet is all that its name implies. It is a menace to decency—a menace to peace and order—a menace to true Americanism—a menace to the spirit of fraternity. It breeds bitterness and strife between neighbors and converts life-long friends into enemies. Its columns reek with slander. Every page is a seething cesspool, in which writhes and wriggle hell-born lies. Some of these hissing serpents of hate are hoary with age, while a few appear to have just crawled out of the slimy brain of Rev. Tedd Walker. Some men are born ahead of their time, but Walker is about 400 years behind his proper schedule. He is as much out of place in this electric age of universal tolerance, fraternity, equality and liberty as a reap hook would be in a Dakota wheat field, or a flintlock on a modern battleship.

He insists that Catholics of 1912 shall be held responsible for the acts of their ancestors in the "Dark Ages." If it is fair to hold twentieth century Catholics responsible for the reign of Queen Mary, it would be equally just to hold modern Protestants responsible for the crimes of Henry VIII., and condemn all Presbyterians as inhuman monsters because Calvin burned Servetus at the stake. The Catholic church of today is, like all other churches, made up from the living genera. None of them can be justly charged with the errors or credulity of virtue of past generations.

Edward J. McPherson will be the gubernatorial chair at Frankfort, leaving everyone convinced that he should be the next Governor of Kentucky.

The United States having supplied the capital and built the Panama canal, should have control thereof and favor American vessels.

SPRING BANK LAWN FETE.

Great promises of a successful lawn fete and outing are expected to be realized by the Catholic Woman's Club when they give their benefit lawn fete, card party and supper at Spring Bank on Wednesday, July 31. The committee in charge will leave nothing undone to provide a good time for everybody, and it is earnestly hoped there will be a large crowd present. John Graves, Jacob Hubbell and Al Smith will be the managers, with Mrs. John Buschmeyer as General Chairman. Among the ladies heading the various committees are Misses Kate Collins, Maggie Wallace, Jennie Kirkup, Blanche Gordon and Mesdames B. J. Jansing, Charles Smith, J. P. Dant, Minnie Bosche, James Tighe, Charles F. Taylor, Dave Welsh, John Graves, Dan Murphy and John Beck. Jack Shelley will preside over the soft drink department.

ANNIVERSARY.

Last Sunday at St. Patrick's church, Thirteenth and Market streets, a large congregation assembled to participate in the religious celebration of the second anniversary of the ordination to the priesthood of Rev. Patrick Monaghan, Secretary to the Right Rev. Denis O'Donoghue.

Father Monaghan sang the high mass, assisted by Father McAleer as deacon and Father Melody as sub-deacon. Rev. James P. Cronin, V. G., pastor of St. Patrick's, preached the sermon, pronounced by those who heard it one of his best efforts. Following the church services Father Monaghan and the officiating clergy were the guests of Father Cronin.

IMPROVING.

Mrs. Anna Spalding, of Little Rock, who has been quite ill since the Fourth of July, is reported improving now and there is confidence that she will soon be fully recovered. Mrs. Spalding is the venerable mother of V. L. Spalding, the energetic manager of the Little Rock Southern Guardian, and is well known throughout Kentucky, where she formerly resided.

ABLE TO WALK.

Rev. Father Charles P. Raffo, pastor of the new St. Charles Borromeo church, is recovering from the effects of a sprained ankle and is again able to walk. The accident happened to Father Raffo last week at Bowling Green, where he was visiting the Rev. Father Hayes. Father Raffo has just completed two years of untiring work, and that he should now suffer any injury would be the cause for widespread regret.

WHY HE OPPOSES SOCIALISM

James B. Morrow, the well known newspaper writer, had a long and interesting interview with Archbishop Bonzano, the Apostolic Delegate at Washington, whom he described as a spare, refined man, with brown hair and eyes, and an animated and handsome face. He may be forty years old, but whatever his age, he is a seasoned missionary and priest and learned in the laws of his church. No doubt he will be a Cardinal some time. Even the Papacy may be within the possibilities of his career. Leo XIII. and Pius X. have shown great wisdom in sending their agents to the United States. They have selected traveled men of the world, and men who spoke the language of the people.

When asked did he believe the world is growing better or did he think it was growing worse, the Apostolic Delegate replied:

"That is a complicated subject. If you mean materially, my answer is yes. We are living better than at any time in history. The poor are better fed, clothed and housed. Relatively, matching this age with those which are past, there is great prosperity everywhere. Railroads and telegraph and telephone wires make communication cheap and easy. But if your inquiry relates to spirituality, then I would hesitate to give you an answer. We say the world is kinder than it used to be. Furthermore it is more just and peaceful. I thank God it is so. But we must not confuse external man with internal man. I have known pagans who were benevolent, obliging and merciful. Still that is not enough. Our Saviour said: 'Thou shall love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, with all thy soul and with all thy mind.'

"What are some of the faults of the twentieth century?"

"The love of luxury is one of them. Bad books and bad newspapers is another. The press is a great uplifting force and promotes honesty, justice and liberty, but many believe seem to make a specialty of articles about crime. Such articles are debasing to every one, and by what is called the process of suggestion often lead the ignorant and the weak into wrong thinking and acting. A good man by his example sweetens life around him. A bad man does harm to others by the manner of his conduct and conversation. It is exactly the same with newspapers and books. I believe in the freedom of the press, but I also believe in the moral accountability of writers and publishers."

"Do Catholic priests have the same difficulty in getting men to attend church that is experienced by Protestant ministers?"

"You are asking me some strange questions," Archbishop Bonzano answered with a smile and a shrug of his shoulders. "It is the duty of all Catholics to be present at church—they are so taught during childhood by their mothers and their priests. We believe in shaping the minds of the young. 'Train up a child in the way he should go,' Solomon wrote, 'and when he is old he will not depart from it.' Our men, for the most part, attend church if they are not working. You will see them any Sunday in any city or village going and coming. At one church in New York as many as 5,000 men, all night workers, go to mass at 2 o'clock on Sunday morning."

"Why do you oppose Socialism?"

"Because it is irreligious. Socialists say they are attempting to establish a paradise on earth. They are not interested in the life that is to come. Scoffing at things of the spirit, they dwell wholly in the present. They are anti-Christian, and in Europe practice the hideous doctrine of free love, thus striking at the home and at the very foundation of civilization. Socialism is coarsely materialistic. It destroys human character. Catholicism protects the home and upbuilds the character. Moreover, Socialism attacks property, not alone the mills and factories of the rich, but the cottages of the poor, which were raised up by thrift, industry and self-sacrifice."

"Oh, there are many reasons why the church is antagonistic to Socialism, but I have mentioned those which are fundamental and stand out above the rest."

"Are priests taught to be brave in the face of all kinds of physical danger?"

"That is another uncommon inquiry," the Archbishop replied, "and yet I must say that it is interesting. Yes, we are counseled to be brave. Every student understands that his is to be a life of personal sacrifice. In himself he is nothing. All that he is and all that he has—his body with the rest—he gives to God. Domestic ties do not anchor him to the earth. He goes where he is sent, nor is he permitted to leave his post. If he is in a small village and every one is ill with smallpox, he must remain and answer all calls to minister to the dying and to bury the dead. He would be disgraced were he to run away, as a soldier would be disgraced were to sink off and hide behind a tree during an open battle. At the fire in the Equitable Building over in New York, priests went among the falling walls to administer extreme unction to several injured men. Priests were busy about their duties when the Titanic sank at sea. The newspapers often refer to what they call the heroism of Catholic priests. It may be heroism to the world, but it is not so with us. In China we anointed lepers with our naked hands and thought nothing of it. They were outcasts, and had been deserted by their relatives and friends. And how grateful they were in their terrible suffering for a little human sympathy, and the preparation we gave them for the grave. Shall a man of God be afraid? Then would his faith be weak, indeed!"

"Does the Catholic church send professional revivalists around to stir up and convert sinners?"

"Oh, no, no. Educated and refined men with special missions preach in many of our parishes once a year, but their meetings are never sensational. They are not rough-spoken, and are free from theatrical methods. With us, the houses of God are places of solemnity and worship."

On Wednesday afternoon, September 18, they expect to initiate 100 members. It will be called "the Cardinal's class." In the evening they hope to fill the Forum with an attraction as rare and unusual as the dedication of a Cathedral, and that is a concert given by the Gregorian choir of the Catholic congregations of St. Louis. This choir is famous.

ANOTHER IRISH PROJECT.

A company with a guaranteed capital of $6,500,000 has been formed to construct a railroad from Colloone Junction in Sligo to Belmullet in Mayo. What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General
News Notes.

The net gain of the order last year was 2,450.

Not one of the large membership of Division 3 is on the sick list.

With the Ancient Order are now sixty fully equipped military companies.

The Kentucky State convention will be held in Louisville, opening on August 26.

The Jeffersonville Ladies' Auxiliary sent a splendid delegation to Chicago this week.

Secretary McGinnis' report shows the Ancient Order now exists in fifty States of the Union.

State Vice President P. J. Kane, of Paris, was with the Kentuckians at the Chicago convention.

Hibernians of Kokomo are making extensive preparation for the Indiana State convention there August 6.

State Treasurer Thomas Howard, of Ashland, was one of the moving spirits in the Kentucky delegation at Chicago.

Five thousand people, many from out of town, attended the Hibernian field day exercises and outing at Syracuse.

Secretary McGinnis reports the order in excellent condition financially, its total assets aggregating $2,116,859.

With all expenses paid there was in the hands of the National Treasurer the sum of $934,615 when the national convention met Monday.

Former Councilman Lawrence Ford, County President of Jeffersonville, was one of the big men from Indiana at the Chicago convention.

Division 4 will meet Monday night and be the first to receive reports from the national convention. A large attendance of members is expected.

During the past two years the Ancient Order expended nearly half a million dollars for sick and death benefits and charity. Not many societies can boast such a record.

Though success is already assured, Tom Quinn and his committee are working hard to bring out a record crowd for the Hibernian Social Club moonlight excursion on Monday, July 29.

The Covington delegation to the national convention included State President George E. Donnelly, County President M. J. Sheppard, Division President Thomas Conry, Judge M. T. Shine, P. J. Carroll, Thomas Donnelly and Thomas Towers.

GROCERS

Will Have Their Annual Celebration Next

On Thursday, July 25, the groceries of the city will be closed at noon, in order to permit the grocers, the clerks and families to attend the annual outing of the Retail Grocers' Association of Louisville, which will be given at Fontaine Ferry Park. As usual, the feature of the picnic will be the "country store," where the grocers will attempt to reduce the cost of "high living" for one day at least by selling everything from watermelons to barrels of flour and loads of coal at ten cents. A barrel of sugar will be disposed of at ten cents, and a nice refrigerator will be obtained at the same figure. This year a wheel of fortune, in charge of George H. Young and Will P. McDonagh, will be one of the new features, whereas Vitus Wellington is having a coffee wheel shipped on from New York to be used at this outing.

William J. Imorde has been named General Cashier, J. F. Storch is Chairman of Committee on Country Store Tickets, G. A. Brucker Chairman of Badge Committee. President John Keller will have charge of the dancing pavilion. Tickets are being distributed by all grocers, and can be had free of charge.

CATHOLIC BASEBALL LEAGUE.

The results in the Catholic Baseball League last Sunday served to tighten up the race in that hustling league and from now on there will be lots of good natured rivalry for first division places in the pennant race. Tomorrow the St. Charles team, the leaders, will journey to New Albany and meet Holy Trinity, accompanied by Lee Osterman and his band of rooters. The heavy hitting St. William team will meet St. Martin at Spring Bank, Manager Ed Wolfe's St. Louis Bertrand team and Manager Tom Cliners Holy Cross club will battle for supremacy at Shawnee Park, and Henry Schulz' improved St. Brigid team will contest with St. Anthony at the same place. Four teams are tied for third place, and tomorrow's results will cause quite a change in the standing, which as follows:

	WON	LOST	PCT.
St. Charles	10	2	.834
St. William	9	3	.750
St. Louis Bertrand	6	6	.500
St. Anthony	6	6	.500

FONTAINE FERRY.

Originally will run a race with fun in the attractions that will hold forth at Fontaine Ferry Park next week. The vaudeville theater continues the magnet, and here the heat is forgotten. Natello and his men will occupy the Ferry band shell for two free concerts daily, one in the afternoon and the other in the evening. The people of Louisville have now come to realize that a few hours spent at this popular place overcomes the tired and dragged out feeling from which all suffer during the heated term.
